Quaker Meeting House (Lynch Meeting House, Cecil Meeting House)

Architectural Survey File

This is the architectural survey file for this MIHP record. The survey file is organized reverse-chronological (that is, with the latest material on top). It contains all MIHP inventory forms, National Register nomination forms, determinations of eligibility (DOE) forms, and accompanying documentation such as photographs and maps.

Users should be aware that additional undigitized material about this property may be found in on-site architectural reports, copies of HABS/HAER or other documentation, drawings, and the “vertical files” at the MHT Library in Crownsville. The vertical files may include newspaper clippings, field notes, draft versions of forms and architectural reports, photographs, maps, and drawings. Researchers who need a thorough understanding of this property should plan to visit the MHT Library as part of their research project; look at the MHT web site (mht.maryland.gov) for details about how to make an appointment.

All material is property of the Maryland Historical Trust.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Cecil (Lynch) Meeting was established prior to 1694 when its existence was reported to the Maryland General Meeting by George Warner and Stephen Coleman, who said that "a weekly meeting settled in Cecil County (later Kent) and a meeting house lately built." Early members included: James Barber, James Delly, Natthew Pope, John Beck, James Coursey, William Bailey, and Edward Beck. The land on which the structure was built belonged to Daniel Lamb (see report of Quaker Estate, 1696, K-230) The Meeting continued to exist throughout the 19th century although its membership continually declined. The meeting was laid down in 1900 and the Meeting House taken down by Howard Turner in 1930. In 1952 the property was given to Third Haven Monthly Meeting in Easton and the records transferred to the Friends Historical Library in Swarthmore.

Old Cecil Meeting House

When we built our home in Rose Valley, Pennsylvania in 1942 the old Meeting House was falling down and we gained permission to secure some of the brick. We used them in building the fireplace in the den. When we sold our home in 1960 we hoped we might have been able to move them to our new home, but this was impossible, of course.

In October of 1942 the Turner family, who came from Kent County and who, like the Lambs, were active in the Meeting, held a celebration at the site of the old Meeting House. There were about thirty-one persons there of the Turner family. We were invited and my wife and I attended. It was a delightful
