Summary Description:

Site 18FR326 is an apparent 18th and 19th century family cemetery. However, the burials within it are believed to have been entirely exhumed and reburied elsewhere in the 1960s by crews working for the Maryland SHA. It is located south of the Catoctin Furnace Historic District, along US Route 15 in Frederick County, Maryland.

During the 1977 Phase I survey associated with the dualization of US Route 15, the cemetery was marked on existing SHA maps of the proposed highway alignment with the notation "an old graveyard, only stone 1787" at this location. The burials were directly in line with the proposed northbound lane. Researchers visited the site but no gravestone was located. There were several gravelike depressions in the approximately 15.24 meter (50 ft) wide area. The owner of the property at that time confirmed that the cemetery had contained approximately 9 bodies which were removed at the time US 15 was first constructed in 1960. He stated that the bodies were reburied in the graveyard of the "Old Church" at Lewistown a few miles to the south.

On the assumption that other burials might still be present, the site was included for further examination during the 1979 Phase II work. Researchers returned to the site to conduct more intensive survey. Based on the size of the site and the presumed number of burials, it was determined that it likely served as a typical family burial ground. It was also determined that the impact of highway construction would not disturb the soil deeply enough to encounter any remaining human remains. With this information it was decided not to excavate the site. Any remaining burials would simply be buried by the northbound lane construction, rather than destroyed. The site has no research potential.
